

CILENTO TOUR

“CAVES OF CASTELCIVITA AND ROSCIGNO OLD CITY”

At the gates of the Cilento, Vallo di Diano and Alburni National Park, in the province of Salerno, the Castelcivita Caves constitute, with a total length of about 4800 m, one of the largest speleological complexes in southern Italy. The system of underground cavities opens at 94 m above sea level, between the banks of the Calore river and the south-western slope of the Alburni mountains, immediately showing a suggestive scenario of tunnels, large spaces and narrow passages dug by the millenary action of karst erosion.

“ROSCIGNO THE ABANDONED VILAGE”

It is a town abandoned due to landslides and remained intact over time.

The first houses lead to the square with the mother church, in the center the fountain, the drinking troughs and the public wash houses. All around a curtain of houses with shops, stables, narrow internal streets. Further on the chapels, the cemetery, the older houses and the mule tracks that lead to the fields. In the 1960s the existence of a large ancient settlement was confirmed that occupied the hill of Roscigno since the final years of the 6th century BC.

In the restored rooms of the old town hall there is the Museum of Rural Civilization which collects testimonies of the life and work of the people of Roscigno, each dedicated to one or more aspects of local popular culture such as the cycle of the vine and wine, the cycle of the olive and oil, livestock farming and cheese production, working the fields, the cycle of wheat, ploughing, harvesting and threshing, transport, wool processing, bread production, the home.
