

POMPEII

“TOUR ARCHAEOLOGICAL EXVATIONS POMPEII”

THE HISTORY OF POMPEII

The terrible eruption of Vesuvius that buried Pompeii and Herculaneum in 79 A.C. left posterity the opportunity to appreciate and visit these two cities as they presented themselves to the ancient inhabitants shortly before the catastrophe. These two most beautiful archeological sites on the Italian peninsula are one of the most visited ruins in the world. Pompeii, discovered by archeologists in 1700 stunned the world. Today the ruins are among the most important sites in Italy, if not the world. The buildings have been so well preserved that you can walk through its streets more or less exactly as the Romans would have done over 2000 years ago and a private guide will make you discover the latest finds as you walk through stone paved streets, houses, temples, the Forum and the perfect theatres. After visiting Pompeii, you can enjoy a coffee break. The tour continues with you to visit the neighboring.
