

ALBEROBELLO & POLIGNANO

ALBEROBELLO CITY

Entering the Itria Valley you will find yourself a place called Alberobello. Also known as Valle dei trulli, thanks to the presence of Trulli, the trulli, rural architectural structures made of stone, are so numerous that they dominate the landscape. Alberobello is certainly a very important stop to make when you go to Puglia. The reason? Alberobello (thanks to the presence of the trulli) in 1996 has become a world heritage UNESCO. Going to the historic center is equivalent to immersing yourself in a place where time seems to have stopped. Think that in the oldest neighborhoods it is still possible to see some Trulli that are still inhabited, you will also find typical shops and shops where you can buy souvenirs and taste the typical products of the area.

POLIGNANO

Polignano a Mare, a magnificent city of ancient origins with a characteristic historic center overlooking the sea. A very popular place all year round, and in the summer the beaches welcome tourists from all over the world. The panorama it offers is unrepeatable: balconies overlooking the high cliffs, terraces and alleys overlooking the historic center. The entire area of Polignano is full of coves and wonderful beaches, traditions and typical products such as homemade pasta or Orecchiette with meatballs or turnip tops, or tomatoes left to dry or hanging in bunches. The cheeses are also no joke, the most fitting example being the burrata di Andria. It also offers fine wines such as Malvasia and Primitivo. We also have the famous Taranto mussels. The fresh Mediterranean fish then delights the palates of the Apulians and tourists who pass through this wonderful land.
